WEDDINGS AT TRELOWARREN

Trelowarren is the essential romantic old Cornwall and was the inspiration for Navron House in Daphne Du Maurier's novel Frenchman's Creek. When you leave the public road and drive through Double Lodges you feel yourself letting go of the stresses of the 21st century and going back to a more peaceful time. A mile of private drive, enjoying views of the grazing ponies, ancient woodland and the old deer park, brings you at last to a view across the wooded Helford river valley before you turn through the 1668 Restoration Gates.

From the oak and beech trees forming a leafy archway above the drive, to the hedgerows speckled with wildflowers and the open parkland, we hope that Trelowarren is where you can best enjoy the fizz and feasting of your wedding day.

YOUR WEDDING CEREMONY

Trelowarren is not currently licensed to hold wedding ceremonies, but we are very happy to host a wedding blessing if the legal ceremony has occurred elsewhere.

YOUR WEDDING BREAKFAST AT NYR

Shared Feasting or A la carte - We understand that one of the most important meals of your life needs to be tailored to your taste and palate. To inspire you we have put together sample menus.

Canapes and pre drinks can be served in the stable yard (if the weather is favourable) whilst your guests mingle and maybe even enjoy some live music.

Our food mission is governed by the seasons and what our producers have available at that time so all our menus are examples only.

We can either operate a retail bar at your event or if you would prefer a paid for bar we can provide a quote and can ensure a wonderful selection and quality of wine and other beverages. If you prefer to supply your own alcohol our corkage rates are £8 per bottle of wine and £10 per bottle of champagne.

Prices include 2 options of canapes on arrival & a choice of evening food for all your guests:
